

Solving Social Problems

Problems and Solutions

Two types of problems:

1) High priority problems:

2) Low priority problems:

When solving problems, it's important to evaluate:

1) The importance of the problem.

2) The safest and least harmful solutions.

3) The possible outcomes of the solutions.

Problems and Solutions

1) Problem: You are having a conversation with someone and they keep interrupting you. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

2) Problem: Your friends are all going to a movie tonight and you find out you weren't invited. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

3) Problem: You find out someone in your class is making up rumors about you, what would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

Expected outcome:

4) Problem: You are having a conversation with someone and they keep checking their watch and not making eye contact with you.

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

5) Problem: You walk into a room for a school event that is filled with strangers. You look around and none of your friends have arrived yet, you feel a little uncomfortable. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

6) Problem: You are walking in the hallway and you are looking down at your phone, not paying attention. You run into someone and they drop all of their books. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

7) Problem: You are waiting in line at lunch and someone cuts in front of you on purpose. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcomes:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

8) Problem: You recently had a fight with a friend. You haven't spoken to your friend since. You see them outside of school at the mall. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

9) Problem: Your friend always calls you a nickname when you see them. You don't like this nickname. You have told them to stop several times and they continue to call you that name. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

10) Problem: You recently made a new friend. You always see this friend in the hallway and say hi to them. One day your new friend begins ignoring you. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

11) Problem: You have a friend over to your house for the afternoon. After playing video games, you decide to make lunch. You both love pizza. You remember that you have left over pizza in the fridge. But you only have 1 slice. You also have peanut butter and jelly, but neither of you like that. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome:

12) Problem: You tell your friend to meet you at the movies and 7:00. Your friend is normally late to social events. You trust they will make it there on time for the movie. But sure enough, your friend arrives late and you had to wait 15 minutes by yourself. What would you do?

- Solution #1:

expected outcome:

- Solution #2:

expected outcome: